Freddie Mac Foundation's
Wednesday's Child

The Teen Choice Awards were just here and our stars on the red carpet are a sibling set of two adorable sisters who'd really like to find a permanent family to call their own. We met Memorie and Tabitha at Melanie Segal's Platinum Gift-giving Suite prior to the big awards show. Along with being recipients of some gifts, these lovely sisters were also pampered with manicures.

Memorie is the big sister and was born in 1996. As a teen, Memorie is becoming more image and fashion conscious and got to pick out some jewelry items as well as some new clothes. Although she just turned 13, Memorie is still a kid at heart and she still enjoys playing board games like "Candyland" and "Sorry" with her little sister, Tabitha.

Like most teens, though, Memorie also likes going to the movies, listening to music and dancing. Memorie is very proud of and identifies greatly with her Irish-Mexican American heritage and loves to cook and attend church. When Memorie is asked about what she wants to be when she grows up, an attorney is the response she gives for now.

Tabitha is three years younger than Memorie and loves playing outdoors (or board games inside) with Memorie. As the “baby” sister, Tabitha tests limits, even with Memorie -- but Memorie loves and accepts Tabitha no matter how much she tests limits. And Tabitha consistently looks to her big sister Memorie for direction.

Tabitha wants to be a singer when she grows up, and already has a heart for pets and looks forward to being able to have one of her own someday.

Both children are very loving and affectionate. Both love to watch movies as well and on this day they got to rub shoulders with some of their favorite actors such as Jordana Brewster from the “Fast and the Furious”, Jenny Mollen and Jason Biggs.

All these celebrities took the time to talk and take pictures with the girls and made them feel important. Maya Angelou once said that “...they may not remember what you did for them or told them, but they’ll always remember how you made them feel.” We’re looking for a permanent family that will embrace that adage and give Memorie and Tabitha a permanent sense of belonging to a family.
