Just when you thought this year's Oscars were yesterday's news, we bring you one more smiley face from the red carpet of Doris Bergman's 8th Annual Valentine Romance Oscar Style Lounge & Party. Wednesday's Child is putting this week's spotlight on Jessica (2002), an engaging youth who is full of hopes and aspirations and usually up for new adventures.

Jessica's journey in foster care hasn't been an easy one and she has had to work at keeping to regimens and maintaining a focus towards goals. Jessica is athletic and has been involved in different types of sports, including football. Staying active is important, but as Mahankirn Kaur, yogi guru to the stars, helped Jessica see – taking pause and being attuned with oneself can be equally important in finding focus and achieving goals.

Jessica wants to serve in the military someday and is also interested in becoming a lawyer so she can help people involved in the legal system have a voice and find justice. And while Jessica's future may have her wearing military hats or the "thinking cap" of a lawyer, in the here-and-now Jessica enjoyed trying on pieces from Twisted Silver's edgy line of jewelry that goes above and beyond the call of jewelry as well as some creative headwear from Di Snapback.

Jessica is a thoughtful girl who has a good sense of her needs and her feelings. She hopes to be part of a family that will keep her active, challenge her and provide her with nurturing support. We are looking to help Jessica find that family and help cast them in their roles as Jessica's story continues to unfold. If you are interested in taking a closer look at the script so far, learning more about adoption and possibly self-nominating your family for consideration, catch this week's Wednesday's Child and then call 1-866-921-ADOPT (2367).
