What kind of an experience would you give to a child whose easing going and relaxed demeanor makes him open to new things? How about golf? For our Wednesday's Child kid, we took him to the Tim Brown Celebrity Golf Classic. Anthony met celebrities such as football greats Tim Brown and Willie Galt and got autographs and also a picture with the lovely Laker Girls.

Anthony was born in 1991 and has a passion for looking sharp and a love for cooking. He really enjoys helping others and likes to be a positive role model to his younger peers. As can be seen, Anthony takes care of his appearance. He is eager to learn and eager to please. Anthony likes jazz music, basketball, computers and video games. He is a little shy when you first meet him but that smile will warm your heart if you give it a chance. He has some mild developmental delays but for this young man, it lends to his gentle nature and his thoughtfulness.

For this young man, he's all about learning new things and golf was the name of the game. He learned what type of clubs are needed for the game and got a lesson on how to hold and swing a club. Anthony was surprised to learn that it takes a life time to master the sport and one grows with each swing and each stroke. Just like being in a family, the relationships one develops and the growth of being a part of a family also takes a life time of dedication to master.

The Wednesday's Child team would love to hit a hole in one for this sweet natured older teen who really deserves to be part of a permanent family. If you have a heart for older children, please give us a call.
