This Wednesday's Child is a call to action on behalf of a special young girl. This is a story that will be sure to tug at your heart and we are hoping that the right family responds and takes action.

Selina was born in 1999 and is of Latino heritage. This darling child has had a rough start in life. Selina suffers from meningitis, is blind and is paralyzed on her left side. Selina also requires special feedings through a g-tube and is not verbal.

Despite the challenges in her life, this trooper is making slow but steady gains and is always full of affection. Selina receives occupational and physical therapy and requires assistance in daily living skills. Selina responds to tactile stimulation and loves to be taken out for strolls in her wheel chair.

We're looking for that special family wanting to help this precious child grow, develop and explore her environment in her own way while being part of a permanent and loving family.

If you have a heart for special needs children and would like to learn more about Selina, please tune in for her Wednesday's Child Story on August 13th and 17th on the FOX 11 10pm News or utilize the link on top of the page for streaming video after the story airs.
