The Academy Awards were back in Los Angeles over the weekend, but now it's our turn to acknowledge an articulate and dynamic young star. Our nominee this week is Tammy. Born in 1993, this soon-to-be-sweet-sixteen hopes to celebrate this year's birthday – and many future birthdays – with a permanent and loving family to call her own.

Tammy definitely has star qualities. She has a sparkling personality that radiates warmth and has a very specific career goal in mind. On this day, though, Tammy was the VIP guest of Melanie Segal, publicist to the stars, as they helped celebs accessorize for the Oscars.

While being a star is not exactly what Tammy is shooting for, she definitely got the star treatment as well as a little pampering – from make-up to a session with a board certified esthetician.

This sharp and articulate young lady told us how much she loves cooking and wants to be a chef when she grows up. Tammy has a positive outlook that others can't help but take notice of as she shares about learning and cherishing positive life-lessons from people she has encountered -- such as her foster parents and social workers. And Tammy is sure to cherish her Wednesday's Child experience as well.

Tammy had a fun day at the Oscar's suite and took home some fun swag as well. But the one major accessory she still hopes to be gifted with is a permanent and loving family. Tammy has a lot to bring to the role of family member – as a daughter and perhaps a sister as well.

We continue to accept “nominations” for loving adoptive families who see a part for Tammy in their family story. For consideration, please give us a call @ 866-921-ADOPT (2367).
