Born in 1999, Vincent is a sweet and sensitive boy who loves to play catch, football, and basketball. While he definitely has a strong arm, we met Vincent at Mountasia Family Fun Center in Santa Clarita, California to test out some of his skills at other fun and games.

Throughout the afternoon we learned that fun and sports are not all Vincent is about. He also likes astronomy and loves to learn about the universe and is fascinated by the planets. Interpersonally, he is an affectionate child and has a contagious laugh and great smile.

At school, Vincent works hard to improve his grades and welcomes the help he receives from his teachers. Vincent is looking for a forever family that is just as inquisitive as he is and who wouldn't mind throwing the ball around in the front yard.

During today's shoot, Vincent used his dexterity in playing games to win an iPod before sitting down to a complimentary meal at the restaurant.

Whether he's gazing into the stars or throwing a ball around, Vincent is grounded in the hope that he will soon be able to do these things with a family of his own. If you think Vincent would fit into your family's line-up, please give us a call.
