The site is seamlessly optimized to be viewed and accessed on any device – from a smartphone, to a tablet, to a desktop computer.

During the past several years, the online Annual Report has been recognized as one of the most innovative in the nation. And this year, the bar has been raised with a number of features that capture the breadth of the County's commitment to its residents.

One of the overarching missions this year was to provide the public with an up-close look at some of the programs and people that exemplify the County's motto of "enriching lives." To that end, the Office of Countywide Communications solicited dozens of video ideas from each and every one of the family of County departments, producing 10 that you'll find informative and inspiring. In addition to these special videos, this year's report also features:

- Videos of the Board sharing accomplishments and milestones from 2015,
- Departmental accomplishment pages,
- An animated explanation of how the budget is built,
- Interactive charts explaining where revenue comes from and where it goes, and
- A stunning high-definition time-lapse flyover of major County facilities and landmarks, stretching from the High Desert to the Ports.

Since the Annual Reports were first moved to a digital format in 2011, the reports have been twice honored in an international competition as the best by a government agency. More than 1.7 million users have accessed its content. Please join those users and explore the many ways in which the County is improving life for its residents.
